HEAD CAUGHT IN A HAY BALER

Aged Farmer Had Narrow Escape from an Almost Instant Death

HORSE SAVED HIS LIFE

Faithful Old Animal Stopped
When He Heard "His Master's Voice"

The sad fate which befell Frank Abercrombie, the jeweler, this week, was almost followed by a similar tragedy near Homer yesterday.

James Hinchman, one of the wealthiest men in Rush county, and aged 78 years, was operating a hay baler using a horse for power in running the machine. He stopped the horse and was making some repairs when the horse started up setting the machinery in motion. The aged man was partially drawn into the feed part of the baler, an instant death seemed inevitable. The baler was pressing against his neck and in another three or four seconds his head would have been crushed off, but with all the power of his lungs he hollered, "Whoa!" to the horse, and the faithful old animal well knowing his master's voice, stopped instantly in his tracks. It was a narrow escape from a horrible death.

OWL WEATHER FORECASTER.

Bird Causes Hancock (Mass.) Folk to Discard Uncle Sam's Reports.

Hancock, just over the Lebanon mountains, west of Pittsfield, Mass., on the New York state boundary, depends upon a hoot owl for its weather reports, says a Pittsfield (Mass.) special to the New York Herald. Every night the villagers listen for the owl, which roosts in the forests of John Taylor's farm. If the owl gives a series of long, mournful hoots rain is expected the next day. If sharp and clear are the hoots the weather will be clear. The owl's forecast has never failed yet.

The owl is called Big Ben. Its mate was shot fifteen years ago and now adorns the show window of Frank Hadwell's store. Robert J. Gillespie of New York, touring through Hancock the other night, listened to the owl for half an hour. He says all Washington weather forecasts have been thrust aside in Hancock.

Deceased was born in Jackson township fifty nine years ago, and had lived in this county all her life. She was a devoted Christian, a faithful wife and kindhearted mother.

She is survived by four children, Mrs. Audit T. Newhouse, Mrs. Cora I. Nixon, Edmund and Homer Gartin. The funeral services will be held Sunday at 2 o'clock at the late residence in 938 North Harrison street, conducted by Rev. Hawthorne, of Ingalls. Burial in East Hill cemetery.

AN AGED VETERAN DIES NEAR MOSCOW

Thomas Carter, Aged 70 Years,
Was Member of the 37th
Indiana

Thomas Carter, an old veteran and well known farmer, living near Moscow, died this morning about ten o'clock. He was aged 70 years and had been ill for some time. Deceased was a member of the 37th Indiana regiment.

NOW HEARING THE ANGELICAL CHOIRS

Marshall Carmichael Was Devoted to Music—An Excellent Character Game

When death called L. Marshall Carmichael Thursday evening to his home beyond the skies, one of Rushville's most estimable business men passed away.

Mr. Carmichael was born in Rushville 57 years ago and lived in this city all his life. For twenty-five years he was connected with his brother, the late J. R. Carmichael, in the dry goods business in this city, and the two were greatly devoted to each other until his brother's death, and since that time deceased has shown by his actions that the death of his brother had continually weighed on his mind.

Deceased was an excellent musician and played the pipe organ for twenty-five years at the First Presbyterian church, of which he was a devoted officer. He was very modest in life and spent his evenings at home with his favorite companion, his piano.

He is survived by his sister-in-law, Mrs. J. R. Carmichael and three nieces, Lorena, Bertha and Leah and two nephews, Howard and Warne. The funeral services will be conducted at the late residence in 433 North Main street, Saturday at 2:30 p. m., by Rev. J. F. Cowling, under the auspices of the Masonic lodge. Burial at East Hill cemetery.

Two Remarkable Recoveries.

A bride at whose wedding I had been best man lost her guard ring on her honeymoon on the Scarborough rocks. She and her bridegroom spent hours in vain search for it. A year later, while sitting on the same rocks, she said to her husband, "Why, this is the very spot where we sat together last year when I lost my ring." "There it is!" he cried in answer, seeing it at the bottom of a little pool in the rocks, where it had been washed by a year's tide.

A lady lost a ring on the underground, but did not discover her loss until some time after she had left the station. When she returned to report the loss an inner circle train entered the station, and on the step of one of the carriages the ring was found. It was the carriage in which she traveled, which had just completed the circle.—T. P.'s Weekly.

GUFFIN HOUSE WAS NOT ROBBED

But Small Boys Were Seen
to Hurry Away When Family Appeared

HAD TAKEN A HORSE

From Glenwood and Driven to the Guffin Home—Left Rig Behind

Yesterday evening the report came to this city that an attempt had been made to rob the home of former Representative H. H. Guffin, six miles east of here. City Marshal Price and a representative of this paper at once hurried to the scene.

Reaching the Guffin home it was found that the family had a white elephant on their hands in the way of a horse and buggy.

They said upon their return from the Glenwood free fair about 4:30 o'clock, they noticed some small boys about the place, but upon seeing them drive up the boys made a quick exit from the place, going through a corn field, south of the house. A horse and buggy was found tied to the fence down the road about an eighth of a mile.

Mr. Guffin took the rig into his barn lot and then phoned the officers, and Mr. Price brought it to this city.

It was afterwards learned that some small boys at Glenwood had taken the rig from where it was hitched by John Carr and Roy Wells, who drove from this city to attend the free fair there. The boys say they missed the rig about 4 o'clock, and thinking the animal had loosened itself and strayed away, they started west to the Rushville pike, and walked as far as Griffin. Not finding any trace of the animal they came to Rushville on an interurban car and reported the matter. They were then of the opinion that the rig had been stolen when Mr. Price returned with it.

No evidence of an attempt to rob the Guffin home was found and nothing was missed about the premises.

cating Themselves—New Affidavits Filed

Mayor Cowing has received the new affidavits for the Rushville grocers charged with violating the Pure Food laws, and will issue warrants at once. The affidavits were prepared at Indianapolis. Last week the mayor sustained a motion to quash indictments on the same charge, on account of being drawn up in a faulty manner.

IN THE SPIRIT OF ROMANCE

Lon Hinchman, Formerly of Rushville, Quietly Took
a Bride

BEEN MARRIED SOME TIME

Wedding Was Made Known Yesterday—Conducts Drug Store
in Indianapolis

Accompanying a picture, the following appeared to day in the Indianapolis Star: "Mr. Mrs. L. O. Hinchman have just admitted it. They had kept it a secret since Aug. 29, but as their friends were beginning to find out anyhow the bride and groom yesterday decided to announce publicly their marriage. She was formerly Miss Pearl Bear, of Madison, Ind., and since the day that she and Mr. Hinchman visited the home of the Rev. C. P. Kirby, pastor of the South Street Baptist Church, away back in August, she has continued to be 'Miss Pearl Bear,' residing at the home of her parents. 'It was just in the spirit of romance,' said Mr. Hinchman yesterday, in explanation of the secret. Mr. and Mrs. Hinchman will reside at 1015 Park avenue. Mr. Hinchman has recently purchased a drug store at College avenue and Twenty-seventh street."

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin B. Hinchman, of North Main street, and lived here until he reached his majority. He has many warm friends in Rushville and Rush county, who wish him well.

PROF. J. H. SCHOLL DISCUSSED PAPER

Before the City and Town Superintendents Association at Indianapolis Today

Prof. J. H. Scholl discussed "The Facilities for the Training of Teachers under the New Law," before the meeting of City and Town Superintendents Associations which met at Indianapolis today.

The new law makes it harder for a teacher to secure license by raising the standard qualification, but with the raise of the standard came a raise in wages, so the teacher will have more money to spend in his training and preparing himself for better service.

GOVERNMENT OUGHT TO OWN ALL THE RAILROADS

of "Seekers of Light" Thursday Evening

The Zetophotonian Debating Society met at their hall Thursday evening and threshed out the problem of "Government Ownership of Railroads." Omer Collier and Robert Ellman stood for the affirmative, with J. B. Snyder and W. F. Jackman, as their opponents.

EARLY FIRE AT THE FREIGHT DEPOT

Agent's Timely Arrival Saved C.
H. & D. Freight Building
From Destruction

When John A. Osborne, the local C. H. & D. freight agent, reached his office this morning about six o'clock, he found the floor on fire and it had just started to blaze, having burned a hole about two feet in diameter.

By quick work the fire was extinguished before much damage was done. It had caught from coal falling out of the stove. Had it happened in the night the freight office would possibly have been destroyed.

FIFTY-FOUR CENTS ON THE HUNDRED DOLLARS

Is What This Man's Advertising
Cost and He Found That it Paid Handsomely

A merchant in a neighboring town states that his advertising last year cost him 54 cents for every $100 worth of goods sold.

He used a half page for his business announcement each week, and says that as long as people read newspapers he will advertise. There's a man possessed of a good head.

Just as soon as merchants begin to look upon advertising as a branch of the business which requires as much care and attention as any part of the business, then will advertising pay.

Honesty, force, originality and persistency in advertising make it a paying investment.

Dora David of Henry county and Miss Martha Powell, of this county, were married yesterday evening by Rev. R. W. Abberley.

U. G. Beaver made a business trip to Morristown today.

THIRTY EIGHT NEW ADDITIONS

Since the Revival Began at the Main Street Christian Church

NINE ADDED LAST NIGHT

Rev. Abberley Discussed "Can
a Man be Saved Out of the Church?"

A meeting of great enthusiasm was held and there was a very large audience, with nine additions at the services at the Main Street Christian church Thursday night, making a total of thirty-eight additions since the special meetings began. Rev. R. W. Abberley discussed the question, "Can a Man be Saved out of the Church?"

The sermon was pointed and comprehensive, and preached with the enthusiasm peculiar to the pastor, whose voice and physical condition shows no signs of fatigue after three weeks of arduous labor both in personal work and in the pulpit.

In discussing the question of the evening, "Can a Man be Saved out of the Church," Rev. Abberley made the statement that he did not refer to the local church or any denomination, but the church which the Savior spoke of when he said "upon this rock I will build my church," the body of which Christ Himself is the head.

"Paul tells us," said he, "that we are redeemed in Christ Jesus, and not out of Him, and according to Paul's statement, if we are saved we must be in Christ, and in Christ means in the body of Christ, the church meaning His body; therefore we must be in the church of Christ. In this," said the pastor, "we are not speaking of infants; they are saved unconditionally, but when we have come to the age of accountability, then our case is conditional and we come into the blessings of God's favor by faith repentance and obedience to Christ.

Spiritual blessings are promised only to those in Christ," remarked the speaker, "and unless we are in Christ we do not have the covenant of the promise of God and we cannot enjoy the blessings of citizenship of Christ's kingdom. If we have obeyed His call and come into the body of Christ we are sure of eternal happiness, but if we do not personally serve Him and should die outside of the body, of which he is the head, we will go into eternity with doubts and no promises of heaven.

"If we are in Christ we have a new relationship," continued Rev. Abberley, "God is our Father, Christ is our Elder Brother, the Holy Spirit is our Guide and Heaven is our home. We are the children of adoption and heirs and joint heirs of Christ and to be an heir to heaven means more than anything in this world.

"Finally," said he, "eternal life is in Christ, he that hath the son hath life; 'Blessed are they that die in the Lord.' It is a sad thing to know one goes out into eternity without Christ."

Prof. Charlton sang one of the best solos of the series entitled "The Boat from the Other Shore," which was very effective and sympathetic. Tonight Evangelist Abberley will speak on "The End of the World; the Last Judgment and the New Heavens and the New Earth. This will be the last week night meeting as the revival is announced to close Sunday night. The ordinance of baptism will be administered this evening after the services.

Mrs. Joseph Horton is slightly better.

A FIGHT FOR GOLD

European Money Markets Seeking to Divert the American Flood.

AN EXTRAORDINARY ACTION

Bank of England Advanced Its Rate of Discount to the Highest Point Since 1873.

Bank of France Does Likewise and Other Continental Money Changers Follow Suit.

New York, Nov. 8.—The contest of the European money market to retain their gold resources was indicated by the simultaneous action yesterday of three of the large central banks of Europe and a call for a meeting today of the governing board of a fourth. The Bank of England advanced its rate of discount from 6 to 7 per cent, a rate which has not before been reached since 1873. The Bank of France advanced its regular discount rate from 3 1/2 to 4 per cent, and fixed the rate for loans on securities at 4 1/2 per cent. The National Bank of Belgium advanced its rate of discount from 5 1/2 to 6 per cent, and Dr. Koch, the governor of the Imperial Bank of Germany, called a meeting of the governing board for today, which is expected to advance the discount rate of the bank from 6 to 7 per cent. These movements in Europe are regarded as an indication of the ability of New York to command gold and the efforts of the European banks to protect themselves against this demand.

Even these high discount rates, however, are regarded as insufficient to prevent the further importation of gold into this country, in view of large credits which are being created by the shipment of wheat and cotton. The high rate fixed by the English bank is not expected to entirely arrest exports from London to New York, but is counted upon in London to equalize the distribution of the yellow metal among European money centers, so as to offset losses to America by imports of gold from other places. The fact that the Bank of France had advanced its rate, although to only 4 per cent, is considered a recognition of the severity of the pressure upon the bank's great gold resources. This action is of special significance because it is the consistent policy of the Bank of France to afford commerce the benefit of a low and uniform rate of discount, and even to buy gold at a loss unless conditions in the international money market make it necessary to protect the reserve.

The stock market reflected the pressure for money by considerable declines yesterday, but these declines were generally expected by bankers, who looked upon the rapid advance in quotations of Wednesday as hardly justified by the situation. There is a strong determination among conservative interests that there shall not be a large speculation for the rise at the present time. They believe that such a movement would not only be artificial and likely to lead to a disappointment, but that it would make calls upon the money market which cannot well be met under present conditions. There are no doubt powerful speculators who would like to undertake manipulation in the market, but the influences arrayed against them are so strong that it will require hardihood on their part to take any course which is opposed to conservative banking opinion.

A GOLDEN SPUR

The Lusitania Makes Record Time Across the Atlantic.

New York, Nov. 8.—With $10,000,000 in gold in her strong-box and a new trans-Atlantic record written in her log, the Cunard turbine Lusitania steamed past Sandy Hook lightship at 1:40 o'clock this morning. In one grand performance the great vessel broke her own world's record and brought to the relief of the money market here $10,000,000 in gold.

The westbound trip was made in four days, nineteen hours and ten minutes. Her hourly average was a little better than twenty-four knots an hour. The former western record of the turbine, completed Oct. 11 last, was four days, nineteen hours, fifty-two minutes.

Department's Thoughtful Act.

Between 40,000 and 60,000 of these cards are received at the dead letter office daily.

Earthquake in Spain.

Madrid, Nev. 8.—A violent earthquake has occurred at Torre La Ribera, in the province of Huesca. The earth opened, leaving great fissures, the disturbance being accompanied by subterranean rumblings which caused a panic among the population. Many houses were shaken down. The number of lives lost is not known.

THEY WANT TO KNOW

Congressional Committee is Looking Into Conditions on Big Ditch.

Panama, Nov. 8.—The congressional committee under the leadership of Representative James A. Tawney, arrived in Panama last night from Colon. They inspected the work at Cristobal and Gatun on the way over.

JAMES A. TAWNEY.

The congressmen will hold conferences daily with the officials of the canal commission to discuss the appropriations for next year. The members of this committee have come to the isthmus to study conditions before acting on the request for $32,000,000 to continue the work on the canal.

LOOTED THE BANK

South Dakota Town the Scene of Daring Raid by Bandits.

Canova, S. D., Nov. 8.—Badly crippled financially and with its quarters almost ruined as a result of an early morning raid by seven bandits, the International bank is doing business as usual, wealthy residents going to the aid of the institution with ready cash to tide over the embarrassment. How the bandits came and where they went is a mystery. Everything of value, including $7,000 in cash, was taken from the safe with the exception of $1,000, which the cashier of the bank had hidden the night before. The robbers broke through the windows of the Canova Hardware company's store and helped themselves to revolvers and shotguns. Then one part of the gang fired at every head that showed itself in the street, while the others blew open the safe. The bank was fully insured against burglary.

A Victim of Overwork.

Columbus, O., Nov. 8.—George Hamilton Phelps, a prominent attorney of Findlay, O., and former law partner of Prosecuting Attorney David of Hancock county, and who prepared much of the evidence in the cases against the Standard Oil company, created a scene in the supreme court yesterday when his mind suddenly gave way while arguing the case of the Amity Oil company against E. V. Wyss and others. He was later taken to Findlay. It is said that Mr. Phelps' mind has been affected by overwork.

Guilt of Manslaughter.

Brazil, Ind., Nov. 8.—Surrounded in the circuit court by his wife and eleven children, including three sets of twins, Lawrence Smith, charged with killing James O. Lane at Cloverland, this county, Sept. 5, entered a plea of guilty of manslaughter and was sentenced to prison for from two to twenty-one years. Mrs. Lane, widow of the slain man, disappeared some time ago, is still missing and did not appear against the slayer of her husband. Smith was accused of ambushing Lane and striking him on the head with a club.

Will Be Turned Back.

Ottawa, Can., Nov. 8.—The federal government has received no confirmation of the press dispatches from Honolulu, stating arrangements are being made to send to British Columbia in the near future several shiploads of Japanese, aggregating 3,000 or 4,000. If the dispatches are correct and an attempt is made to land these Japanese at Vancouver, it is not improbable that they will be turned back. In view of the fact that they will not have passports from the Japanese government.

Youthful Hunter is Killed.

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 8.—While hunting with boy companions Clifford Neece, the fifteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Neece of Ellettsworth, was accidentally shot and died almost instantly. The boys were hunting in the Pence woods near Forest Park, and young Neece stumbled over a log. The shotgun was discharged by the fall and he received the full charge in his breast.

She Took No Chances.

Clay City, Ind., Nov. 8.—A nine-year-old pupil in the Middlebury public school was found a few days ago to have his pockets loaded with twenty-five or thirty dynamite caps, which he carried about to trade with the other boys. Before punishing the reckless boy the teacher relieved him of all the caps as a precaution against an explosion while playing the rod.

The Engineer Was Killed.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 8.—A fast east-bound passenger train on the Lackawanna plowed into a freight wreck near Fargo, early this morning. The passenger engine, baggage and mail cars were wrecked. Engineer Hammond was killed and the fireman was badly injured. Several train-hands were slightly hurt. None of the passengers was seriously injured.

TO BUST A TRUST

The President Decides to Proceed Against Grasping Paper Makers.

VIOLATION OF INJUNCTION

Will Be Charged Against the Individuals Composing the Old International Paper Company.

In Addition to This He Will Recommend That Tariff Barrier Be Removed.

Washington, Nov. 8.—The president will recommend in his message to congress that the duty of $6 a ton on print paper and $1.65 on ground wood pulp be removed. He will also instruct the attorney general to move against individuals formerly composing the International Paper company for alleged violation of the injunction of the federal court for the district of Minnesota, under which the so-called paper trust was dissolved nearly two years ago. Promises to this effect were made by him to a general committee representing the American Newspaper Publishers' association and other newspapers co-operating with this association, representatives of the magazine publishers and the presidents of the several printing trades.

The appreciation of the association was expressed to the president at the action taken by the federal government last year in ordering the dissolution of the General Paper company. His attention was then called to what was termed a "conspiracy" by which it was alleged the makers of news print paper have arranged for an advance of $12 per ton upon the supply of that article for the current year, and for an additional advance next year averaging $10 per ton. This, it was explained, means a burden imposed on the printing industry of the country of $10,000,000 for the present and $19,000,000 for the coming year. The excuse of these advances on the part of the paper-makers is that the cost of wood and labor have increased. This excuse was met in the argument to the president by the statement that the published report of the larger manufacture of news print paper gives the increased cost of material and manufacture, including the expense of administration of and sales as about 64 cents per ton.

The movement to obtain action at the coming session of congress was started at a meeting of the publishers held in New York city some weeks ago, one of the largest meetings of publishers ever held in this country. The committee representing the publishers was created at that meeting, with Don C. Seitz of the New York World as chairman. The allied printing trades gladly came into the movement, and through their presidents were on hand to reinforce the representatives of the publishing business.

It is the president's intention to recommend that the tariff on print paper and ground wood pulp be removed as an independent action—an action entirely independent of any consideration of the tariff as a general proposition. As for the work that is to be done by the department of justice, steps will probably be taken to proceed against the individual members who formerly constituted the General Paper company, which went out of business after the federal court issued an injunction dissolving it. Proceedings will probably also be taken against ten Eastern manufacturers of paper who are in the combination for the raising of prices.

Thoughtful Word to Miners.

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 8.—Action looking to the relief of the financial situation was taken at a joint board meeting of the Indiana Bituminous Coal Operators' association and the United Mine Workers of America. The mine workers' officials agreed to urge the miners to accept checks and today are sending circular letters to all locals in the state.

Motion to Dissolve Injunction.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—A motion to dissolve the injunction restraining the directors of the Illinois Central Railroad company from allowing 5,500 shares of stock held by the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York to be voted at the annual meeting, has been filed in the Cook county superior court.

Checks for Workingmen.

Pittsburg, Nov. 8.—The National Tube company, at McKeesport, Pa., near here, has posted notice that it would meet the next pay with clearing house checks. The concern employs about 12,000 men.

Young American Victorious.

Testimony Being Offered.

Rathdrum, Idaho, Nov. 8.—The taking of testimony in the trial of Steve Adams for the alleged murder of Fred Taylor about Aug. 10, 1904, has begun.

The Woods National bank of San Antonio, Tex., has suspended.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson VI.—Fourth Quarter, For Nov. 10, 1907.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Josh. xxiv, 14-22. Memory Verses, 22-24—Golden Text, Josh. xxiv, 15—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Copyright, 1907, by American Press Association.

The Lord had given rest unto Israel from all their enemies (xxiii, 1); the tabernacle had been set up at Shiloh and was still there when Samuel was brought as a little lad to minister to the Lord in the days of Eli (xxiii, 1; xxi, 51; I Sam. 1, 3, 24); Joshua was old and felt that his sojourn on earth would soon be over, so he called together the elders and officers of Israel and rehearsed to them all that the Lord their God had done for them and how He had fought for them as He had promised, bringing the record down from the days of Abraham to the time when he was speaking. He reminded them that it was "the Lord their God" who had done it all, using that particular phrase about fourteen times in chapter xxiii, and in chapter xxiv, 1-13, the Lord Himself, through Joshua, spoke of more than twenty things he had done for them. Joshua testified to the faithfulness of God in these words: "Not one thing hath failed of all the good things which the Lord your God spake concerning you. All are come to pass unto you, and not one thing hath failed thereof" (xxiii, 14). Solomon at the dedication of the temple used almost identical words (I Kings viii, 56), and it is our privilege to do the same and always to live in the faithfulness of God, remembering such assurances as I Cor. 1:10; x, 13; II Thess. iii, 3. Now, in our lesson we have the burden of Joshua's heart for this people whom he was about to leave, "Fear the Lord and serve Him in sincerity and truth" (verse 14), and three times the people reply that they will serve the Lord (verses 18, 21, 24), emphasizing it in verse 24 in these words: "The Lord our God will we serve, and His voice will we obey." Joshua's declared determination, "As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord" (verse 15), and his very strong plea had a grand result, for we read that "Israel served the Lord all the days of Joshua and all the days of the elders that over-lived Joshua, which had known all the works of the Lord that He had done for Israel (verse 31). The people considered the Lord's mercies to them, saying, "The Lord our God brought us up out of the land of Egypt and did those great signs and preserved us in all the way and drove out from before us all the people; therefore will we also serve the Lord, for He is our God" (verses 17, 18).

Joshua warned them that the Lord is holy and jealous (verse 19), that He will not tolerate other gods, but the people insisted that they would serve Him. Note the other six places where he is called jealous—in Ex. xx, 5; xxxiv, 14; Deut. iv, 24; v, 9; vi, 15; Nah. i, 2—indicating that He will zealously care for and defend His own, but He covets His own all for Himself that He may do His utmost for them. In verse 22 we learn that to serve the Lord means a very decided stand against ourselves, a denial and renunciation of self (Matt. xvi, 24; Phil. iii, 3), knowing that in us—that is, in our flesh—there dwelleth no good thing (Rom. vii, 18). As was the custom, a stone was set up for a witness, as if it had heard all the words (verses 26, 27). See also xxii, 26, 27; Gen. xxviii, 18, 22; xxxi, 45-49. May it not suggest to us that "the stone of Israel" (Gen. xliii, 24), "the tried stone, the sure foundation, the precious cornerstone" (Isa. xxviii, 16) is a witness always to every word and act and thought of ours? May we lay it to heart that our God is a jealous God and that we cannot serve God and Mammon (Luke xvi, 13).

Israel was redeemed from the bondage of Egypt that they might serve the Lord who redeemed them (Ex. iv, 23; x, 26), and to do this they needed all that they possessed. Not a hoof was to be left behind. Samuel's great plea was, "Only fear the Lord and serve Him in truth with all your heart, for consider how great things He hath done for you" (I Sam. xii, 24). One of our Lord's replies to the devil was, "Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve" (Matt. iv, 10). The height of future bliss for many is described in the words, "The throne of God and of the Lamb shall be in it, and His servants shall serve Him, and they shall see His face, and His name shall be in their foreheads" (Rev. xxii, 3, 4). Paul, who testified of his relation to the Lord Jesus in these words, "Whose I am and whom I serve," and who delighted to call himself a bond slave of Jesus Christ, wrote to the Thessalonians, "Ye turned to God from idols to serve the living God and to wait for His Son from heaven" (Acts xxvii, 23; I Thess. i, 9, 10). Of himself he said elsewhere, "Serving the Lord with all humility of mind and with many tears and temptations which befell me by the lying in wait of the Jews" (Acts xx, 19). If the queen of Sheba was constrained to say of Solomon's servants, "Happy are these thy servants which stand continually before thee and hear thy wisdom" (II Chron. ix, 7), how much more happy and how much higher the privileges of the servants of the living God. Those who hear the name of Jesus Christ and yet turn to the vanities of this present evil world have not heard and observed Him.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 10, 1907.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.
Topic.—The greed for gold.—Prov. xxiii, 4, 5; Luke xii, 13-21.

The emphasis in this topic must be placed upon the word greed. Gold is right enough in itself and is a wonderful blessing to mankind, but that which needs to be condemned is the insatiable greed for gold that leads men to sacrifice their honor, their friends, their reputations and their very hope for heaven. It is to be denounced and preached against. For gold Benedict Arnold sold his country, Lord Bacon his judicial honor and Judas Iscariot his Lord. Men high in financial institutions have become defrauders, and widows and orphans have suffered, and men who have had their ill-trusted to their care have lost it and have often been driven to despondency and despair.

The astounding and revolting revelations in recent years of the financial frauds in our political and business life have appalled the people. But, after all, there is more honesty in the world than the average man imagines. We only hear the stories of the comparatively few rascals who defraud the public, ruin banks and deceive the people in various ways to satisfy their greed for gold. Of the vast thousands who honestly fulfill their trusts, who honestly acquire a fortune, not a word is said, and therefore we think often that there is no honesty in the world; that every rich man is a scoundrel. Moreover, it is a serious question if we have not taken a wrong attitude in dealing with man's desire for gold. It is practically a universal desire. Few men would refuse a fortune. Gold has its value, and to despise it is to show a spirit of hypocrisy or of foolishness. It can be used as powerfully for good as for evil.

Gold plays a prominent part in every phase of life—the individual, home, church and state. It erects our hospitals, asylums, philanthropic homes, and makes possible the necessities and comforts of life; hence it does seem that the keynote in relation to money should be its proper accumulation and its proper use. Tirades and denunciations should have little place in dealing with such tremendous problems. Men need instruction in finding the proper solution of their attitude toward the natural craving for wealth. Honesty in acquirement should be emphasized, and the dangerous results of dishonesty should be made prominent. Furthermore, men should be taught that the greatest joy in gold is not simply the use of it for self, but for the good and happiness of others.

But, after all is said, gold has its dangers. The desire for it is great and often turns to a sinful greed, whether a man has much or little. It is the love of money, a false, insatiable love of it, that is a root of evil. The poorest may sinfully love it as well as the richest of men.

There are several serious facts that should warn us against a sinful greed for gold: (1) It's uncertainty. "Labor not to be rich, * * * for riches certainly make themselves wings." Nothing of great importance in life is so uncertain as riches. In a moment, in a day, our money may take wings. Should we set our hearts wholly and absolutely upon such an uncertain factor in our lives? (2) The sinful greed for gold may lead us to take a false attitude toward Christ. It did so with the man who came to Christ to ask Him to divide the inheritance. He saw in Christ a petty judge instead of a mighty Saviour. The rich young man who came to Christ could give up all for Him but his money, and instead of following Him he went away from Him. How many are kept from Christ because of their evil love for money and their evil use of it! (3) The sinful greed for gold leads us to overrate its value. Gold will do much, but it won't save the soul or feed it. This was the mistake of the rich fool in Christ's parable. He thought he could feed his soul on material things. He said, "Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years—eat, drink and be merry," as if the soul could be fed on his much goods. Only Christ, the bread of life, can satisfy our souls. All the gold and all earth's other treasures cannot save or support the soul. Make no mistake in thinking that it can do so in your case.

Trainer of Church of Tomorrow.

The young people of today are to be the support of the church of tomorrow. On them will rest the responsibility of carrying on God's work here after their fathers and mothers have finished their work. To meet this responsibility they need special training in Christian work. The Christian Endeavor society offers this training. There they may learn to work for Christ, to speak for Him and to bring others to Him. Their interest in the church is quickened by their having some definite work of their own to do, and they are strengthened for a larger sphere of usefulness in the future. No other organization sets the young people at work along so many lines, giving them the training necessary for future usefulness in the church as well as developing the spiritual life. The Christian Endeavor society is an invaluable aid to the pastor by its members carrying out his plans and through the committees assisting him in a variety of ways. It seeks to help not only those connected with the church, but the indifferent, endeavoring to bring them within its influence and win them to Christ.—Irish Endeavor.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Nov. 10: "The conversion of the gentiles." (Missions.) "They glorified God, saying, Then to the gentiles also hath God granted repentance with life."—Acts xi, 18.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.
Passages for reference—Gen. xxii, 18; Mal. i, 11; Col. iii, 11; Rev. xxi, 24-26.

There are some strange things connected with the mission work of the Christian church for the conversion of the gentile world.

First, it is a very strange thing that men are so divided in opinions and interests and are so antagonistic to each other. Race prejudice is very strong. Peace, harmony and mutual helpfulness seem entirely reasonable, yet the most advanced nations are the most heavily armed and prepared for war. Brotherhood is much talked of, but does not exist to any great extent as yet among the nations.

Reason does not yet hold control in human affairs, nor does righteousness.

It is hard to see how the welfare of men can be secured unless both righteousness and reason shall rule.

Men have been and are as much at variance and strife in religious matters as on any other subject. Perhaps no subject has caused more enmity than this.

There has been a multitude of different religions first and last, each with some truth in it, yet most of them far from teaching the essential truth which should unite men in a brotherhood of peace.

One religion has such a brotherhood as the clearly defined goal toward which it is working. It is the aim of God to bring together in one all things through Christ. This is the belief of Christians. This is the meaning of that ancient promise to Abraham. It was the belief of the greatest of the Hebrew prophets. The universal kingdom of God among men, established on righteousness, justice and mercy, was the vision of Isaiah, whose trumpet voice rings loud across the ages with the proclamation of the Messiah's kingdom calling in the gentiles as well as Israel.

It was difficult for an Israelite after the times of Ezra and Nehemiah to have much toleration for the gentiles. It was so hard for the Jewish Christians who had been with Jesus all His life to understand how a gentile could be saved that a vision had to come to Peter and miraculous descent of the Holy Ghost before they could tolerate the thought.

The church has been long awaking to the fact of God's intention to save the gentiles and still slower in arousing herself to fulfill her mission in carrying the gospel to all mankind.

There are signs of brightness now which give promise that before long the church will awake to a fuller conception of God's will and her privilege toward the gentile world.

We as Leaguers need to keep constantly before our minds our responsibility in this regard and pray with firmer faith and fuller comprehension our daily petition, "Thy kingdom come."

We must work to bring in this kingdom in business, social life, religion and government and in every sphere of human effort. This is our task. Let us realize it and accomplish it.

The Inner Life.

It is the inner life that makes our world. If our hearts are sweet, patient, gentle, loving, we find sweetness, patience, gentleness and lovingness wherever we go. But if our hearts are bitter, jealous, suspicious, we find bitterness, jealousy and suspicion on every path. If we go out among people in a combative spirit, we find combativeness in those we meet, but if we go forth in a charitable frame of mind, with good will in our hearts toward all, we find brotherliness and cordiality in every man we come up to in our walks and associations.

In ourselves the sunshine dwells; In ourselves the music swells; Everywhere the heart awake Finds what pleasure it can make; Everywhere the light and shade By the Gazer's eye is made.

This is the secret of that fine art some people possess of always finding good and beauty in others. They have goodness and beauty in themselves. There are such people, and there is no reason why we should not set this ideal for our lives.—F. R. Miller.

A Sad Day.

A prayerless day never can be anything but a day of loss and failure. It may not seem so. Business may be prosperous as ever. The table may be bountifully spread. God "maketh His sun to rise on the evil and the good and sendeth rain on the just and unjust." But, however bright and happy a day may seem to be, if it lacks Heaven's benediction it is a sad day.—Forward.

A Valuable Grace.

It is a Christian grace to have pleasant and affectionate thoughts about men, to rejoice in their excellencies and charitably to forget, as far as may be, their shortcomings.—R. W. Dale.

First Morning Duty.

Make it the first morning business of your life to understand some portion of the Bible clearly and your daily business to obey it in all you do understand.—Ruskin.

Suit For a Lifetime.

If honor be your clothing, the suit will last a lifetime, but if clothing be your honor it will soon be worn threadbare.—William Arnot.

A Christian's Calling.

The true calling of a Christian is not to do extraordinary things, but to do ordinary things in an extraordinary way.—Dean Stanley.

Grateful Mother Tells Her Experience With Father John's Medicine.

Mrs. James O'Brien of 3745 Hillside avenue, Cincinnati, writes: "My husband has had a very bad stomach for eight or ten years and has a cough. Doctored by several good doctors, to no effect. He has been taking Father John's Medicine for about nine months and to our astonishment his trouble has completely disappeared. My husband is all kinds of weather, day and night. If he should get wet or even work long hours, before he lies down he has to have his Father John's. Also I have two boys that have more confidence in this medicine than anything in the drug store. If they have a cough, cold, or even if they feel a little out of sorts, the only comfort they have is Father John's Medicine. When they went to school last winter, as soon as they came home they would say, 'I don't feel good, mamma, you must give us some Father John's Medicine tonight.' You are perfectly welcome to publish anything in regard to the medicine, as far as my family and self are concerned; we cannot speak too highly of it." (Signed.) CHARLES S. VAIL, Associate City Editor

RUSHVILLE, INDIANA, NOVEMBER 8, 1907.

Taggart's announcement that he will retire from politics when he gets ready can hardly be regarded as startling or unexpected information. From his standpoint there is no reason why he should retire. He is still boss in fact if not in name, and while there is perceptible revolt in the ranks against his domination, it has not crystallized sufficiently to threaten his dominion.

The Republicans in Kentucky possessed a great advantage in their candidate, Mr. Willson, and this was one of the causes that gave them the victory. While the temperance issue was most important, the principal factor which brought about a revulsion in Kentucky, was the apparent malvolence and injustice of the three trials of Caleb Powers. The tardy and reluctant offer of reparation or relief lately offered to Powers, was an admission of the great wrong done him. Caleb Powers, seven years in a cell, three times convicted and three times remanded by a court of appeals, now has the joy of feeling that he has achieved by an example of fortitude and steadfastness, his own safety from malicious foes and the triumph of his party in Kentucky.

In today's Republican appears the announcement of Dr. M. W. Yencer, of Richmond, as a candidate for Congress. This makes three candidates from Wayne county, the other two being Rev. J. O. Campbell, pastor of the Richmond Fifth Street M. E. church, and Wilfred Jessup, prosecuting attorney. Because the Republicans of Wayne county deem it advisable for them to go before the next Sixth district convention with three candidates, they are discussing the advisability of holding a primary in order to permit the people to decide which one of the three candidates shall be presented before the convention. Thus Wayne county will be able to go before the convention with a solid delegation whose purpose is fixed. With nine candidates in the field scrambling for the nomination, and even fighting for their home county delegations, the outlook seems to indicate that when the delegates from the nine counties assemble to select a candidate to bear the Sixth district's color in national legislative halls, there will be a spirited contest before the honors are bestowed.

INDIANA POLITICS

BY ROBERT G. TUCKER.

Indianapolis, Ind., November 8.—The returns made by the state banks indicate that most of the investments are of a solid character. Bank Clerk Oglesby says there has been very little speculation among the state banks, and their showing is marvelous. At the auditor's office it is not thought that any of them have been seriously affected by the present financial flurry, as it has been generally understood that most of the state banks had more money than they could invest profitably. The farmers, who have been unusually prosperous, have an enormous amount of money deposited in the state banks. At the auditor's office it is said that the state banks are not having trouble and that none of them would have limited the amount of checks against them but for the action of the clearing house associations in the larger cities in tying up their reserve funds. At Winchester, Muncie, Greencastle, Terre Haute, Lafayette and other cities in the state, banks are not paying any attention to the clearing house rules, but are cashing checks as usual.

The constitutionality of the railroad commission law of 1905 has been attacked in the appellate court in two cases. One was filed by the Nickel Plate, Monon, Lake Erie & Western, Lake Shore, and Pennsylvania against a ruling of the commission lowering the rate on fertilizer from 8 to 6 cents a hundred pounds. The other was filed by the Southern on account of the commission's action in lowering the rate on coal between New Albany and Evansville. J. D. Welman of Evansville, who represented the Southern, said the commission made the coal rate without taking into consideration the cost of maintenance of the road and the cost of hauling freight. The same point was raised in both cases, Henry M. Dowling, deputy at-

ANNOUNCEMENT

To the Citizens of the Sixth Congressional District of Indiana:

My reason for addressing you is: As the time of the Republican primaries and nominating convention are drawing near at hand, I wish to announce to the citizens of the Sixth Congressional district that I am a candidate for United States Representative in Congress. Wayne county has twice nominated and elected me to the Indiana State Legislature and now I shall invite and ask the undivided support from all the counties in the Sixth Congressional district for the nomination and election as their representative in congress.

I would be more than pleased to meet every citizen in the district and those whom I do not meet personally. I ask for their support just the same.

I do most heartily endorse the administration of President Roosevelt and the Republican platform; the Executive's policies are the policies of the people of this nation, the people have endorsed him, the people have sanctioned them, the people have voiced them, almost regardless of party lines. There never was a time in the history of this government since the days of Washington, when the people were more united with the chief executive than they are today.

It will be my sole aim and duty as a member for Congress from the Sixth district to maintain the policies of President Roosevelt and the Republican platform, who ever may be the next President of the United States. The policies of President Roosevelt and the Republican party will be the policies of the people for the next four years to come. Practically there is but one party today, that is the party of Lincoln, of Grant, of Garfield of Harrison, of McKinley and Roosevelt. The people of this country are only too willing to vote for men of the Republican party, who are in full harmony with President Roosevelt's policies and his administration. The people are eager to cast their votes for such men.

In full measure of this I am in full accordance with President Roosevelt's policies and the Republican party. I therefore ask for the undivided support from the citizens and voters of this congressional district.

M. WASHINGTON YENCER.

torney general, appeared in behalf of the railroad commission.

The latest story from the Second district is that ex-Congressman Robert Miers of Bloomington is grooming himself to make the race for the Democratic congressional nomination. Several of the newspapers of the district are saying that it was one of Miers's political plans for John Spencer of Washington to go after Cy Davis's scalp and declare himself for William A. Cullop of Washington, and that Miers hopes that the waters will become so muddied that the convention will turn to him as a compromise candidate.

According to a decision of the appellate court of Indiana, a wife may "nag" her husband to her heart's content. She may exhibit violent temper and interfere with his schemes for making money to the point of refusing to join in deeding away their property. She may do all these things without being guilty of "cruel and inhuman treatment." This decision was rendered in the case of Will G. Hofman vs. Hanna Hofman, of Orange county, in which the former was granted a divorce. The appellate court, however, reversed the action of the lower court. Judge Rabb, who rendered the opinion, said that if standing by her rights to an interest in her husband's real estate is a marital offense for which a wife could be divorced, it would be better that the law giving her such right be repealed. Such is not the case, however," said Judge Rabb. "The marital relation is not to be cast aside on any such trivial and insufficient grounds."

The commission appointed by Governor Hanly to select a site for a state tuberculosis hospital and farm, met here yesterday. Several locations are under consideration. The commission went to Henryville today to inspect the state forestry reserve. It has been suggested that this tract would prove an ideal spot for the proposed institution for which the last legislature made an appropriation.

THE LAST ROAD.

CROSS the silence of the hills
(Oh, distant hills of dream)
The piper's magic music shrills
And ripples like a stream.
Beyond the moor, beyond the fen,
Thin, tremulous and silver clear,
It pierces to the souls of men;
It calls—and they must hear.

The voice of all the crowded town
(Oh, voice of tears and laughter!)
The piper's charmed note shall drown;
They turn and follow after.
By its wild lure their feet are drawn
To walk a way they do not know.
Whatever heart be left to mourn
It calls—and they must go.

They leave their hearts' desire behind;
(Oh, wailing tune the piper plays!)
None know what they may hope to find;
What waits beyond the trackless ways
No grief can hold, no love can keep;
No wild regret their eyes can dim.
Whatever heart be left to weep
The piper calls—they follow him.

CURRENT COMMENT

Panics and Poverty.

It is a kindly feeling toward one's fellows that makes most Americans regret the coming of a panic because of the hardships it entails upon the poor. Statisticians have told us that there is now an alarming amount of poverty in this country. Perhaps the stringency of money will add to the hardships of those already classed as poor, and it will certainly increase the number of those who will appeal to sympathy. Every great panic throws an army of people out of work. Fortunate are those who have provided for their inevitable "rainy day."

But there are minor panics going on all the time in commercial centers which take away the incomes of dozens and it may be hundreds of wage earners. In contrast to what they once were they become poor. Recently there has been opened in New York city a third "Mills hotel" for the accommodation at a low price of men who have seen better days. To many of this class of unfortunates those better days were easy days and were expected to last always. Close scrutiny into the past of some of these men who now seek to live "like gentlemen" upon 50 cents a day would indicate that it was not altogether a panic which brought them into straits. They lived fully up to their means. Some enjoyed a "fools' paradise," and others reached after more and by overreaching lost all. The real earnest wage earner seldom makes that mistake, and so the mechanic and laborer have the advantage in panicky times over their brothers of the kid gloves and diamond pin.

A Recruit For Progress.

Abyssinia is about to join the procession of states living under a constitution. Its ruler, Menelik, if not exactly a "benevolent despot," as the term is used, has at least proved himself an intelligent one in the up to date sense. His country stands out among all the nations around it as a land ripe for progress.

Recently ancient Persia halted in her retrograde and the ruler conceded a constitutional government at the point of the bayonet. China will get there yet, although it will take more than an imperial edict to change the thoughts of 400,000,000 subjects steeped in oriental conservatism. Russia is coming into line, and when her transformation is complete Europe will have few examples left to demonstrate the advantages of absolute rule. Fifty years ago the rulers of the continent were

Native Negroes Better Than Immigrants.

By Justice DAVID J. BREWER of the United States Supreme Court.

MANY of the vast multitudes pouring into this republic are racially cold blooded and selfish. Not a few come TAINTED WITH THE SPIRIT OF ANARCHY and are willing to destroy all social order in the hope of PERSONAL GAIN out of the wreck. These immigrants become citizens as we are citizens.

While the colored brothers may be too fond of the chicken coop and the watermelon patch, THEY ARE FIRM BELIEVERS IN SOCIAL ORDER. You will find no Johann Most, Emma Goldman, Czolgosz or Giteau among them.

IN THE STRUGGLE WHICH MAY BE EXPECTED TO COME BETWEEN ORDER AND ANARCHY MAY IT NOT BE THAT THESE PEOPLE, GRATEFUL TO THE NATION FOR THEIR LIBERTY AND TO THE GOOD PEOPLE OF THE LAND FOR THEIR UPLIFT IN KNOWLEDGE, PURITY AND SOCIAL STANDING, WILL PROVE THEMSELVES A MIGHTY FORCE UPHOLDING LAW, ORDER AND THE SUPREMACY OF THE NATION?

Stranger things have happened than that these people, crushed and wronged for generations, should become at last STRONG DEFENDERS OF THE NATION and the community at whose hands they have hitherto received mainly INJUSTICE.

Alvin P. Hovey began the practice of law at Mount Vernon. He was born in Posey county, Ind., Sept. 26, 1821. In 1861 he entered the army as colonel of a regiment and served throughout the war, reaching the rank of major general. Immediately after the war he was appointed minister to Peru, but returned to Indiana in 1870. In 1888 he was elected governor, holding the office until Nov. 23, 1891, when he died.

scared into fits by the specter of constitutionalism, which seemed to rise from this side of the ocean and point a menacing hand. Since then the gravest political troubles have been solved by resorting to constitutional form. It means something when a farsighted monarch like King Menelik, whose sway "there is none to dispute," decides that free government is the best government on earth.

MOTOR DASH TO SOUTH POLE.

Special Machine For ice Work Makes Dog Train Unnecessary.

Lieutenant Shackleton's preparations for a motor trip to the south pole have been completed, says a London special cable dispatch to the New York Sun. He will go under the auspices of the British antarctic expedition. The motor is made of specially prepared steel which is supposed to be able to resist exposure.

It has two sets of wheels, one of the ordinary pattern and the other of wood. The front pair is of wood and is to be used to travel over snow on wooden runners shaped like skates. The driving wheels are fitted with steel blocks, into which steel spikes can be inserted when stretches of ice and free snow are encountered. A box placed on the side of the car has a pipe which is warmed from exhaust gases to melt snow for cooking and drinking. Foot warmers are heated in the same way.

The car will run only about twenty-five miles a day, but will carry enough petrol for 300 miles. Dogs will not be necessary, and the elimination of carrying provender for them will give plenty of room for storage. The motor has two seats and is only protected by a gabardine and a wind screen against the temperature. The greatest interest is felt in the expedition.

KEENE'S TIGHT MONEY TALE.

Shows How One Might Borrow $10 and Not Be Any Better Off.

James R. Keene, the financier, told this story illustrative of "high finance" at the Waldorf the other night, says the New York World:

A Kentucky dandy negotiated a loan of $10 from a New York banker, pledging his mule and cart as security.

"Money is pretty tight," explained the banker, "and I shall have to charge you $2.50 now for the use of the $10 for a month."

The dandy consented, signed the papers and half an hour later was found by a friend standing in the road scratching his wool with one hand and looking ruefully at the $7.50 in the other.

"What's de matter, Sam?" asked his friend.

"Oh, dere ain't nothin' de matter, 'cept I knows I's right. Dat bank man he done charge me $2.50 for $10 for a month. I's right, suh, fo' if I had a ast fo' de $10 fo' foah months I wouldn't a got nothin'."

POLICE COURT IN COLLEGE.

University of Michigan Students to Try Each Other For Misdemeanors.

No more will the University of Michigan student ponder on his misdeeds behind the bars of a barren cell if the plan of the student council works out successfully, says an Ann Arbor special dispatch to the New York Times. The council has a scheme, which has received the official sanction of President Angell and the Ann Arbor authorities, by which students will be tried for ordinary offenses by the council.

President Angell approves the idea and says he will back the action of the council even to the extent of expelling the convicted student from school if such a course is advised by the president of the council. The latter has conferred with the Ann Arbor chief of police, who agrees to turn over students arrested for minor misdemeanors to the council instead of keeping them in jail for the night. The council will act as a court of inquiry and will have power of summoning all students as witnesses.

WOMEN GO INTO THE CORN FIELD

Ladies of the Big Flatrock Christian Church Raising Church Fund

ALL ENJOYED THE WORK

Shucked Sixty Three Bushels in One Afternoon on the Noah Tryon Farm

For grit and nerve of the old ribbed variety we present the ladies of "The Helping Hand Society" of Big Flatrock Christian church.

At the home of the president, Mrs. Noah Tryon, Wednesday afternoon, eight ladies, Mrs. Henry Hungerford, Mrs. Joseph Thompson, Mrs. Frank Alter, Mrs. Lloyd Wagoner, Mrs. Grant Miller, Mrs. Elmer Hungerford and Miss Bertha Alima, met and indulged in a corn husking bee that they might raise money to be put into a fund for their church. It was with light hearts that these eight brave and willing souls went into the corn field to further the glory and edification of their Maker.

They drove into the field in a large wagon and went at the work with a vim and vigor not usually found in farm hands. Some of the workers were elderly women, but that did not hinder their taking off their coats—figuratively—and pitching in.

They worked from 1:30 o'clock until after 4 o'clock, and during that time they shucked, weighed and cribbed 63 bushels of corn. Mr. Tryon gave them five cents a bushel and it was a proud treasurer indeed that tucked away $3.15 in the folds of a gingham saving bank.

After the work was completed a collation of pumpkin pie, milk and cake was served.

In the party was three ex-school teachers, four Sunday school teachers and one Sunday school superintendent.

The ladies say they will try corn gathering again as they find it pleasant and profitable work.

"I don't just remember what the crime is—bigamy, or mayhem, or attinder of treason, or something. Anyway, they'll get you in jail, and that's all they want. They think you're the only lawyer that's wise enough to cause trouble and the only one they can't bribe."

"Lord! What'll I do? They'll watch
every lighter that leaves the beach,
and if they don't catch me that way
they'll search the ship."

"I've thought it all out," said the old man, to whom obstruction acted as a stimulant.

"Yes; but how?"

"Leave it to me. Get your things together and be ready to duck in two hours."

"I tell you they'll search the Santa Maria from stem to stern," protested
the lawyer, but Dextery had gone.

"Better do as he says. His schemes are good ones," recommended Glenis-ter, and accordingly the lawyer made preparation.

In the meantime the old prospector
had begun at the end of Front street
to make a systematic search of the gambling houses. Although it was very late, they were running noisily,
and at last he found the man he wanted playing black jack, the smell of tar
in his clothes, the lift of the sea in his boisterous laughter. Dextery drew him aside.

"Mac, there's only two things about you that's any good—your silence and your seamanship. Otherwise you're a disreputable, drunken insect."

The sailor grinned.

"What is it you want now? If it's concerning money or business or the growing up side of life, run along and
don't disturb the carousals of a sailor-
man. If it's a fight, lemme get my hat."

"I want you to wake up your fireman
and have steam on the tug in an hour,
then wait for me below the bridge.
You're chartered for twenty-four hours,
and, remember, not a word."

"I'm on! Compared to me the spinks
of Egypt is as talkative as a phonograph."

The old man turned his steps to the Northern theater. The performance was still in progress, and he located
the man he was hunting without difficulty.

Ascending the stairs, he knocked at
the door of one of the boxes and called for Captain Stephens.

"I'm glad I found you, cap," said he.
"It saved me a trip out to your ship
in the dark."

"What's the matter?"

Dextery drew him to an isolated corner. "Me an' my partner want to send a man to the States with you."

"All right."

"Well—er—here's the point," hesitated the miner, who rebelled at asking favors. "He's our law sharp, an' the McNamara outfit is tryin' to put the steel on him."

"I don't understand."

"Why, they've swore out a warrant
an' aim to guard the shore tomorrow.
We want you to—"

"Mr. Dextery, I'm not looking for trouble. I get enough in my own business."

"But, see here," argued the other,
"we've got to send him so he can make a powwow to the big legal smoke in 'Frisco. We've been cold decked with a bum judge. They've got us into a corner an' over the ropes."

"I'm sorry I can't help you, Dextery,
but I got mixed up in one of your scrapes and that's plenty."

"This ain't no stowaway. There's no danger to you," began Dextery, but the officer interrupted him:

"There's no need of arguing. I won't do it."

"Oh, you won't, eh?" said the old man, beginning to lose his temper.
"Well, you listen to me for a minute.
Everybody in camp knows that me an'
the kid is on the square an' that we're gettin' the bunk passed to us. Now,
this lawyer party must get away tonight or these grafters will hitch the horses to him on some phony charge so he can't get to the upper court. It'll be him to the bird cage for ninety days.
He's goin' to the States, though, an'
he's goin'—in—your—wagon! I'm talkin' to you—man to man. If you don't take him, I'll go to the health inspector
—he's a friend of mine—an' I'll put a crimp in you an' your steamboat. I don't want to do that—it ain't my reg-

lar graft by no means—but this bet goes through as she lays. I never belched up a secret before. No, sir. I am the human huntin' case watch, an'
I won't open my face unless you press
me, but if I should, you'll see that it's time for you to hunt a new job. Now, here's my scheme." He outlined his directions to the sailor, who had fallen silent during the warning. When he had done, Stephens said:

"I never had a man talk to me like that before, sir—never. You've taken advantage of me, and under the circumstances I can't refuse. I'll do this thing not because of your threat, but because I heard about your trouble
over the Midas and because I can't help admiring your blamed insolence." He went back into his stall.

Dextery returned to Wheaton's office.
As he neared it he passed a lounging
figure in an adjacent doorway.

"The place is watched," he announced as he entered. "Have you got a back door? Good! Leave your light burning and we'll go out that way." They slipped quietly into an inky, tortuous passage which led back toward Second street. Floundering through alleys and over garbage heaps, by cir-
cuitous routes they reached the bridge,
where in the swift stream beneath they saw the lights from Mac's tug.

Steam was up, and when the captain
had let them aboard Dextery gave him
instructions, to which he nodded acquiescence. They bade the lawyer adieu, and the little craft slipped its moorings, danced down the current,
across the bar and was swallowed up
in the darkness to seaward.

"I'll put out Wheaton's light so they'll think he's gone to bed."

"Yes, and at daylight I'll take your place in McNamara's loft," said Glenis-
ter. "There will be doings tomorrow
when they don't find him."

They returned by the way they had come to the lawyer's room, extinguished his light, went to their own cabin
and to bed. At dawn Glenister arose and sought his place above McNamara's office.

To lie stretched at length on a single plank with eye glued to a crack is not a comfortable position, and the watcher thought the hours of the next day would never end. As they dragged wearily past his bones began to ache beyond endurance, yet owing to the flimsy structure of the building he dared not move while the room below
was tenanted. In fact, he would not have stirred had he dared, so intense
was his interest in the scenes being enacted beneath him.

First had come the marshal, who reported his failure to find Wheaton.

"He left his room some time last night. My men followed him in and saw a light in his window until 2 o'clock this morning. At 7 o'clock we broke in, and he was gone."

"He must have got wind of our plan.
Send deputies aboard the Santa Maria.
Search her from keel to topmast, and have them watch the beach close or he'll put off in a small boat. You look over the passengers that go aboard yourself. Don't trust any of your men
for that, because he may try to slip through disguised. He's liable to make up like a woman. You understand—there's only one ship in port, and—he mustn't get away."

"He won't," said Voorhees, with conviction, and the listener overhead
smiled grimly to himself, for at that moment, twenty miles offshore, lay Mac's little tug, hove to in the track
of the outgoing steamship, and in her tiny
cabin sat Bill Wheaton eating breakfast.

As the morning wore by with no
news of the lawyer, McNamara's uneasiness grew. At noon the marshal returned with a report that the passengers were all aboard and the ship
about to clear.

"By heavens! He's slipped through you," stormed the politician.

"No, he hasn't. He may be hidden aboard somewhere among the coal
bunkers, but I think he's still ashore
and aiming to make a quick run just before she sails. He hasn't left the beach since daylight, that's sure. I'm going out to the ship now with four men and search her again. If we don't bring him off, you can bet he's lying out somewhere in town, and we'll get him later. I've stationed men along the shore for two miles."

"I won't have him get away. If he should reach 'Frisco— Tell your men I'll give $500 to the one that finds

him."

Three hours later Voorhees returned.
"She sailed without him."

The politician cursed. "I don't believe it. He tricked you. I know he did."

Glenister grinned into a half eaten
sandwich, then turned upon his back and lay thus on the plank, identifying
the speakers below by their voices.

He kept his post all day. Later in the evening he heard Struve enter.
The man had been drinking.

"So he got away, eh?" he began. "I was afraid he would. Smart fellow,
that Wheaton."

"He didn't get away," said McNamara. "He's in town yet. Just let me hand him in jail on some excuse! I'll hold him till snow flies." Struve sank into a chair and lit a cigarette with wavering hand.

"This 's a hell of a game, ain't it, Mac? D' you s'pose we'll win?"

The man overhead picked up his ears.

"Win? Aren't we winning? What do you call this? I only hope we can lay hands on Wheaton. He knows things. A little knowledge is a dangerous thing, but more is worse. Lord!
If only I had a man for judge in place of Stillman! I don't know why I brought him."

"That's right. Too weak. He hasn't got the backbone of an angworm.
He ain't half the man that his niece is.
There's a girl for you! Say, what'd
we do without her, eh? She's a pippin'!" Glenister felt a sudden tightening of every muscle. What right had that man's liquor sodden lips to speak so of her?

"She's a brave little woman all right.
Just look how she worked Glenister
and his fool partner. It took nerve to bring in those instructions of yours
alone, and if it hadn't been for her we'd never have won like this. It makes me laugh to think of those two men stowing her away in their state-
room while they slept between decks
with the sheep, and her with the papers in her bosom all the time. Then,
when we got ready to do business,
why, she up and talks them into giving
us possession of their mine without a fight. That's what I call reciprocating
a man's affection."

Glenister's nails cut into his flesh,
while his face went livid at the words.
He could not grasp it at once. It made him sick—physically sick—and for many moments he strove blindly to beat back the hideous suspicion, the horror that the lawyer had aroused.
His was not a doubting disposition, and
to him the girl had seemed as one pure,
mysterious, apart, angelically incapable of deceit. He had loved her, feeling that some day she would return his affection without fail. In her great, unclouded eyes he had found no lurking place for double dealing. Now—God!
It couldn't be that all the time she had known!

He had lost a part of the lawyer's
speech, but peered through his observation hole again.

McNamara was at the window gazing out into the dark street, his back toward the lawyer, who lolled in the chair, babbling garrulously of the girl.
Glenister ground his teeth—a frenzy
possessed him to loose his anger, to rip through the frail ceiling with naked
hands and fall vindictively upon the two men.

"She looked good to me the first time I saw her," continued Struve. He paused, and when he spoke again a change had coarsened his features.
"Say, I'm crazy about her, Mac. I tell you, I'm crazy—and she likes me
—I know she does—or, anyway, she would—"

"Do you mean that you're in love
with her?" asked the man at the window without shifting his position. It seemed that utter indifference was in his question, although where the light shone on his hands, tight clinched behind his back, they were bloodless.

"Love her? Well—that depends—ha!
You know how it is," he chuckled
coarsely. His face was gross and bestial.
"I've got the judge where I want
him, and I'll have her—"

Amusements

"There's nothing new under the sun" does not apply to "A Cowboy's Girl," the magnificent scenic production that will be seen here tonight. This play is a distinct departure from the old worn-out plays and contains more
pure fun and startling situations,
tells a new love-story and is presented
in an absolutely novel manner with special scenery and a great cast at the Grand theatre tonight.

The Vaude't has another comic film
for tonight, "Inquisitive Boy," grandpa arrives, presents a jack knife
to boy who cuts papa's cane, punctures
grandpa's hat, carves on chair and tables, visits kitchen and bedroom,
destroys everything in sight; papa,
mamma and grandpa returns from
garden and find boy taking papa's watch apart; the boy gets his. This is a very funny picture and will please. "Ice Industry in Sweden"
shows the cutting, packing and handling of ice, also uses it is put to.
Miss Blanche Wrenick will sing "Far Away," a beautiful illustrated song.

"The Gingerbread Man," announced
by Nixon & Zimmerman, as the attraction at the Auditorium in Con-nersville, Saturday evening, November 9th, is said to be a fairy spectacle and musical extravaganza well worth seeing. The scenes of the story are laid in Fairyland. The first act in Santa Clara country, the second act on the border line between the realms of King Bunn and King Sugar Plum.
Both realms are good enough to eat,
and the dividing force is made of
good, rich strawberry shortcake.
Perhaps the most unique and beautiful features of "The Gingerbread Man" is a novel scenic effect in the second act, when Evelyn Kellogg, as little Jack Horner, sings the song,
"Moon, Moon, Moon." High above the darkened stage a glowing crescent
moon, bearing a gorgeously attired
beautiful girl swings into view singing
an answer to the salutation of her worshipper. The chorus sings a soft melodious refrain.

"The Gingerbread Man" had a long
and prosperous run in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia.

TO MARKET IN AN AUTO.

Farmer Carries Produce Fifty Miles
and Saves Ten Days a Year.

Charles Blake, who has a big produce farm at Blake's hill, near East Cornwall, Conn., used to reckon on two days for the long trip from his farm to Waterbury, Conn., and back,
at best a hard trip on the horses, says
a Waterbury special to the New York World.

But now Blake has a big touring car. He loads up the tonneau with butter and eggs and vegetables, he seats himself on a fine cushion instead
of on a hard board, adjusts his goggles, seizes the steering wheel, and away he goes, speeding without a jolt
hard enough to crack one of the eggs.
If he wanted, Blake could run rings
around the farmers' wagons he passed.
The other farmers curse him fervently.
Mr. Blake calculates that he saves
ten days a year with his auto.

Ermine on Morosini Nags.
Not satisfied with having clad her
favorite horses in royal leopard skins, Miss Giulia Morosini, always on the lookout for a new excuse for extravagance, this winter will dazzle the fashionable world by blanketing her thoroughbreds in ermine, says the New York Press. How pretty a penny that fad will cost may be calculated from the fact that a single ermine lining
for a coat of any length is worth $2.

Cyclists' Lights.
An agitation is on foot to compel bicyclists to carry lamps showing a red light at the rear, says the Motor Cyclist. Nothing difficult in this and excellent for the lamp makers. But why not first of all compel bicyclists to carry a lamp showing a light at the front?

HAD NO AUTHORITY

Trustee's Contention Regarding Transportation of Children Upheld.

AN INTERESTING DECISION

In These Days of "Centralized" District Schools This Case May Have Large Application.

Trustee Refused to Provide For Children's Transportation and Is Upheld by Court.

Mt. Vernon, Ind., Nov. 8.—In the circuit court of Posey county Judge Welborn rendered a decision which will be of considerable interest to the various trustees of the state of Indiana and especially to the residents of northern Posey county. It was the case wherein James Kilroy, an attorney of Poseyville, brought suit for the petitioners of three school districts in Robb township against John W. Anderson, trustee of the township, directing him to hire conveyances and take the children to school because there were no schools in those districts.

The trustee refused to hire a conveyance on the ground that the advisory board had not appropriated any money for that purpose and that he had no authority to use the general funds of the township.

The case attracted considerable attention and interest in this county, especially among the people of Robb township, in which the town of Poseyville is located. The arguments of Anderson's attorneys were based on a law passed by the last legislature, which covered the point in controversy, and Judge Welborn sustained their contention. A similar suit is now pending in Marion county.

CREOSOTE TANK EXPLODED

Milton Dickason Thrown Fifty Feet and Severely Injured.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 8.—The 160,000-gallon creosote tank of the Indiana Tie and Creosoting company exploded without any apparent cause, and Milton Dickason, a young foreman of the plant, was seriously injured. The loss will amount to $10,000.

The escape of Dickason from instant death is regarded as marvelous. He was on top of the tank, a distance of thirty feet, measuring the quantity of oil in a barrel, when the explosion occurred. He was thrown fifty feet into the air and landed fifty yards from the tank on the Monon railroad track. His left arm and ankle were broken and his head was badly cut. It is feared he suffered severe internal injuries. As all the buildings are fireproof, there was no fire as the result of the explosion.

Brakes Failed to Work.

Indianapolis, Nov. 8.—While running at high speed an inbound interurban car on the Muncie division of the Indiana Union Traction company line, jumped the track at a curve at the intersection of the line and the Monon railroad tracks entering the city, and thirty-five passengers were more or less injured. The passenger most seriously injured was David Elder of Fortville. His hip was crushed so badly that his left leg had to be amputated at St. Vincent's hospital, where he later died. Three or four others were seriously injured. A dozen or more were treated at hospitals. The others were able to be taken to their homes. The cause of the accident is said to have been the failure of the air brakes to work when the car neared the curve. The car jumped the track and landed on its side, shaking up the passengers in one confused mass.

Postoffice Safe Robbed.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Nov. 8.—Robbers worked the combination of the safe in the jewelry store of Proctor & Matheny at Butler and escaped with $800 in cash. The postoffice at Auburn Junction, twelve miles from Butler, was also robbed. Here the safe was blown and $90 in postage stamps stolen. It is believed the same gang did both jobs, but there is no clue.

Landed in Law's Clutches.

Hartford City, Ind., Nov. 8.—Albert Young, whose sweetheart said she stole for his sake, returned here and attempted to get the girl away from the city. He is now under arrest as an accomplice of the girl on a grand larceny charge.

Defective Church Furnaces.

Michigan City, Ind., Nov. 8.—The Congregational church, with its new pipe organ, was wrecked by fire. Insurance, $15,000. The fire is supposed to have started from a defective furnace.

Charged With Burglary.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 8.—John Graham was arrested here charged with robbing the store of J. A. Jennings at Hillsdale, Ind., of about $200 in cash and valuables.

Settling Damages.

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 8.—The Dupont Powder company is settling the claims of persons who suffered from the explosion at Fontanet.

ALL LOVELY ONCE MORE

Central American Presidents Get Together and Agree to Be Good.

Managua, Nicaragua, Nov. 8.—Presidents Zelaya of Nicaragua, Davila of Honduras, and Figuerola of Salvador were in conference yesterday at Amapala for the purpose of consolidating peace in Central America. The results of their meetings are as follows:

They agreed to forget past differences and declared that fraternal relations existed mutually and that previous treaties of friendship were in force. They will communicate to the delegates to the approaching Central American peace conference at Washington what has been agreed upon at Amapala and will order them to proceed according to instructions to be given.

The three presidents further agreed that they were united in favor of peace in Central America, and they decided to hold a peace congress to follow the Washington conference, at which delegates from the five republics of Central America should endeavor to make uniform their respective codes of international law.

THROWN INTO PRISON

American Citizen Charged With Revolutionary Acts in Nicaragua.

San Francisco, Nov. 8.—Seized by a detachment of Nicaraguans after being driven out of his hiding place on board the Pacific Mail liner San Juan at Corinto, Elizardo Maceo, an American citizen, son of a famous Cuban general, was captured during the outward trip of the San Juan from this port and thrown into prison at Managua, Nicaragua, despite the protests of the Brazilian minister and the 200 American passengers on the steamer. This word was brought here when the San Juan arrived from her voyage down the southern coast. Maceo, who several years ago led a revolution against Nicaragua, traveled under the name of Morris and claimed to be an American citizen. He was found after a search by an armed force of Nicaraguans in his cabin with a revolver pressed to his temple.

Kansas City, November 8.—A man thought to be Mill Johnson of Indianapolis, aged about twenty-three years, was run down by a train near here and killed.

CAMPER'S THRILLING ESCAPE

Nearly Run Down by Fleeing Deer. Growled at by Pursuing Wolf.

Grant McMahon of Ely, Minn., member of the board of county commissioners and one of the well known residents of the Vermilion range, had an experience the other day that causes thrills every time he thinks of it, says a Duluth (Minn.) dispatch to the New York Herald. It happened near milepost 110.

Mr. McMahon was standing beside a trail waiting for the return of his companion in the woods, Anton Kochar, when he heard something coming with a rush and peered up the trail to see a great buck coming at lightning speed. Mr. McMahon stepped back just in time to escape being trampled by the animal. He had partly recovered from the excitement occasioned by the swift flight of the buck, which had passed within two feet of him, and was just about to step into the trail again when a huge timber wolf, the largest he had ever seen, came leaping down the trail in hot pursuit of the deer.

Mr. McMahon saw the beast in time to leap into the brush at the edge of the trail. The wolf growled savagely at him as it passed. Mr. McMahon was content to have the wolf keep on his way. He was afraid for one anxious moment that the wolf would attack him and let the deer go. But the "Indian animal" was bent on having venison. Whether he got it may never be known.

The deer was running in the direction of a lake, and as it had a good start it is believed that it got to the water, which is the friend of the deer as well as many other wild animals.

RAIN SPOUT FOR BALLOON.

Latest Thing in Aeronautics Is Drainage Canal.

Putting a rain spout on a balloon is the newest thing in aeronautics, according to a special dispatch from St. Louis to the Chicago Inter Ocean. French and German representatives watched the English contestants in the international aero races perform the trick the other day at the skating rink, Channing and Cook avenues.

The Englishmen, Griffith Brewer and Lieutenant Brabazon, painted a strip of silk equal in length to the circumference of their balloon with cement. With small bars of iron they ironed the cemented silk into a stiff semi-circular shape. They set this in position around the middle of the balloon.

The other aeronauts said they had never seen anything like it before. Brewer told a reporter that he and his associate had seen so much rain since they arrived in America that they decided it would be well to install the rain spout. They used it during the big race. It prevents water off the top of the bag from dripping down into the car.

Frequently a painting will bulge and be very unattractive unless remedied. An artist claims that such pieces can be remedied without danger of destroying the paint by dampening both the right and wrong side and keeping the canvas under very heavy pressure until thoroughly dried.

Urinary troubles set in.

Don't wait longer—take Doan's Kidney Pills.

Rushville people tell you how they act.

Mrs. William Trennepohl, 1016 West First Street, Rushville, Ind., says:

"Though I did not take Doan's Kidney Pills regularly, yet they did me a great deal of good and relieved me of a nagging pain across the loins that robbed my life of comfort, rendered my nights sleepless and caused languor and weariness to depress me. Before my husband got Doan's Kidney Pills for me at F. B. Johnson & Company's drug store, I could not lie on my back on account of the extreme pain. I do not have backache now and the lameness is rapidly going away. Doan's Kidney Pills have given me great relief and I do not hesitate to recommend them to others similarly afflicted."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents, Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States.

RABBIT'S CLEVER STUNT.

How He Lures Dogs to Death—Many Valuable Animals Killed.

A wise old jack rabbit that lives in a field close by the Colorado and Wyoming stone quarry, near Trinidad, Colo., recently lured over half a dozen dogs to death in two weeks, says a Trinidad correspondent of the Denver Times.

Persons who have seen several of the dogs leap to their death say that just as sure as the dog goes to sniffing around in that field the old jack rabbit gets within sight of him and invites a chase. It races away, with the dog in pursuit, the rabbit always leading the chase straight to the stone quarry, one side of which drops straight down a precipice a hundred feet to the bottom. As the old rabbit nears the quarry he quickens his speed, making leaps to within a few feet of the edge.

When he is so close that the next leap would carry him over the edge of the precipice he quickly springs aside. There is nothing on the surface to indicate to the dog the yawning gulf ahead. Grass and cactus grow right up to the edge. When the rabbit jumps aside the dog, unable to check his speed, bounds over the precipice and goes tumbling downward end over end, alighting upon the sharp edged rocks at the bottom.

Upon the rocky floor the skeletons of six dogs were found a few days ago by the old quarry keeper, who was roaming over the quarry. This discovery cleared up the dog mystery that has perplexed citizens of Jansen for some weeks. Some very valuable rabbit dogs are among the dead.

The women divers of Shugashima have developed an ability to withstand the cold of the water and are now the support of their families in their strange vocation. They dive to depths as great as sixty feet, getting pearls and the halibut or abalone, a shellfish that is in great demand for food.

AS OTHERS THINK

Everyone in Rushville Has a Right to His Own Opinion

While everyone has a right to his own opinion, yet it is wise to always consider what others think and profit by their experience.

Nothing makes life so miserable, or interferes so widely with the usefulness of the average American, as indigestion, and it is well for us to give fair consideration to what others think about remarkable affliction.

F. B. Johnson & Company are positive that in Mi-o-na stomach tablets they have an absolute cure for indigestion and the many disagreeable symptoms that follow this disease, such as distress after eating, coated tongue, bad taste in the mouth, dizziness, flatulence, nervousness and debility.

Their action in selling Mi-o-na on a guarantee to refund the money unless it cures, shows plainly their belief in the value of this remedy. They take all risk, and there will be no charge whatever for Mi-o-na unless you are satisfied that it has relieved you of indigestion

Miss Nancy Hogsett, one of Congressman Watson's stenographers, is off duty on account of illness.

PREMIUMS OF GLENWOOD FAIR

Awarded to Large Number of Exhibitors—"Francis T." Wants Light

BIG FIGHT AT NIGHT

Married a Happy Event—Fayette County Sheriff is Now Busy

The weather was superb and the crowd began to gather early in the morning, and Mrs. Mae Brooks was the first depositor. It has not been ascertained as yet who was the largest depositor. The bank did a splendid business during the day. The people came from all over the State, Indianapolis, Connersville, Rushville, Spiceland and Dublin and many other places. Old residents, or who were once residents, were on the ground early and viewed the two miles of sidewalk nearly completed. Many were the complimentary remarks of progress of our enterprising citizens.

The bank building speaks well for the town. Volumes could be written upon the prospects of the town and vicinity.

The people were amply served with lunch by the Ladies Aid of the different churches, hotel and restaurant, and one lunch stand.

The pleasure of the two thousand people who were gathered to witness the bank opening and free fair was marred by a drunken riot in the evening. All of the parties who were concerned in the disturbance have not been learned yet. The instigator was old "corn juice" in a Connersville party or two. The deputy sheriff of Fayette county possibly will know more about it sooner or later as the parties are Fayette county residents.

The Hon. Harris, ex-minister to Austria, from Indianapolis, was present in the afternoon and made a very able address for the occasion. He was followed by Hon. F. T. Roots, of Connersville, who made a very eloquent appeal for the bank, which was to the point, as he is president. During his address he said he would donate $100 for lighting of the town, which will be acceptable.

The Glenwood band furnished the music. In short it was surely a Red Letter day for the old town.

Following are the number of entries in various classes and names of winners:

Mr. Swain, of Rush county, was the judge on corn and wheat.

White Corn—Nine entries, Thos. Young, 1st; Homer Hadley, 2d; both of Fayette county.

Yellow Corn—Nineteen entries, Ed Wilson, of Fayette county, 1st; John
